Thank you for tuning in today. I just have a quick special announcement. This podcast is being baptized today. We're being reborn as the Markets and Mojitos podcast. Thank you for all the name suggestions. Over the past two or three weeks, I received many suggestions and several really, really good ones.

And it was tough to make the final choice. But finally, here we are. Alcohol and beaches was the hard to ignore idea. So we are now officially the Markets and Mojitos podcast. Now. If you've never tried a mojito, I would definitely recommend that you give it a shot. It is a superbly refreshing drink and a really simple one to make.

It's a blend of white rum, some lime, some soda water, which I usually skip, a little mint and a little sugar, and then you can add whatever flavoring you want on top of that. My favorite types of mojitos are mango mojitos, cucumber mojitos, and if I want to add a little spice, I drop in a few pieces of jalapenos in there to make a jalapeno mojito.

A really nice drink for a warm day, and it's perfect for when you are at the beach. I, myself have been known to fill up a flask or two when I go out to the beach. So tune in for the next episode of the Markets and Mojitos podcast in a few days. Until then, stay healthy, stay safe, be kind to others and take some time to do something that you enjoy.

After all, that's why we invest for life, for love, and for happiness. Thank you and see you next time.
